Glen Davis from West Virginia examines his captured AK-47

1 - My good buddy Glen Davis, from West Virginia with his captured AK-47.

"Ain't it purtty!"

2 – Not a great shot, but close examination shows these SPs preparing a minigun for night duty. Woe to Charley if he encounters this team tonight.

Our miniguns were slowed down to fire 3,200 full metal jacket rounds per minute.

3 – I took this from the driver's seat of "Fluffy" our beloved Armored Personnel Carrier, M113. This is the North West perimeter area.

4 – Inside a “commando car.” Note the knobs and ports through which SPs could fire their M16s. Anyone remember this man’s name?

5 – G. Ernest Govea, behind an M60 machine gun on a commando car of the 3rd ACAV of the 3rd SPS.

6 – “Fluffy,” fully armed, and my fellow crew members.
I took the picture and was the driver.
*L – R: A buck sergeant whose name I no longer recall, AIC Ustonovich, Sgt. Dicks our track commander, and AIC Gelderman from Pennsylvania.
