WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson tonight means Sunday to tighten defenses against mortar attacks such as raked a U.S. air base in South Vietnam Saturday and he immediately replaced the jet bombers destroyed in that strike.

The attack on Bien Hoa airfield near Saigon killed four Americans and destroyed five B-57 twin-engine jet bombers.

The President's moves were announced by the White House after a 75-minute Sunday afternoon meeting by Lyndon Johnson and top aides including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, international security affairs adviser McGeorge Bundy, Under Secretary of State George W. Ball and William P. Bundy assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

The Administration tended to regard the affair as serious because of the loss of life and planes, but had no major development in the war against the communist insurgents. It was seen as an episode of a type difficult to prevent in such a war where the enemy has many opportunities for such hit-and-run surprise attacks.

Presidential Press Secretary George Ruddy issued this statement after Johnson was briefed by his advisers:

"The President met with the secretaries of state and defense."

to receive reports on the Viet Cong flash raid at the Bien Hoa airfield.
"Steps in cooperation with Vietnamese authorities in local defense measures were discussed, and the President was informed that his orders to replace the aircraft lost in the raid had been carried out."

Attack Was Political, Barry Hints

Officials also disclosed Sunday that, as a result of the raid, consideration is being given to using more U.S. personnel in guarding airfields. They said this is being discussed by U.S. authorities in Washington and Saigon and has been taken up with the South Vietnamese government.
The officials said the B-57s had been kept at Bien Hoa in case there was a need for heavy bombing strikes anywhere in the area.
About 60 B-57s were moved into Vietnam after the August Tonkin Gulf incident and are regarded as a tact threat to communist north Vietnam bases which supply the communist rebels in South Vietnam.
However, officials said they assumed communist leaders recognized that the destruction and safer areas. At Saigon Airport, U.S. jets were moved from one exposed end of the field to another position.

Westmoreland said Vietnamese paratroopers and marines were stationed at Bien Hoa but were unable to move out quickly because of danger of minefields and poor communication at night.
Asked why the B-57s had been parked together, Westmoreland said the disadvantage of dispersal of planes is that local security for each plane is more difficult and maintenance is awkward.
Official damage and personnel losses at Bien Hoa, as given by Westmoreland:
Five B-57s destroyed, eight heavily damaged and seven with minor damage;
Four B-57 air-sea rescue helicopters heavily damaged.

Wounded Sergeant Charged Viet Reds

BIEN HOA, South Vietnam (AP)—"Our sergeant's arm was nearly blown away by mortar fragments but he grabbed his rifle and went charging out the door hollering he was to get the Viet Cong for this," a muddy, tired soldier said Sunday.
He was telling about the heavy mortar attack on American installations at Bien Hoa Air Base during which four Americans were killed.
The reaction of American soldiers was generally shock, anger and partial disbelief in the lightning attack after midnight. It was both the boldest and most vicious against American forces in Vietnam to date.
SP4 Richard Hafler of Coctland, N.Y., said his sergeant finally was virtually forced to go to the emergency hospital set up in a mess hall.
Hafler is a member of an American helicopter company whose quarters were blasted by the Viet Cong fire. Extremely accurate fire scored five direct hits on huts.
Half of the American wounded and all the dead were carried to the hospital.

EVERY BODY CELEBRATING - NO GUARDS

Six Killed, 19 Wounded In Early Morning Attack

Communist Viet Cong guerrillas struck at sprawling Bien Hoa Airbase 12 miles northeast of Saigon shortly after midnight Sunday morning with a mortar attack that left four U.S. servicemen dead and 17 more wounded. The barrage also damaged or destroyed 27 aircraft at the base.

The attack began at 12:36 a.m. and reports from a U.S. military spokesman said that the mortar fire lasted between 15 and 20 minutes.

The spokesman said that the best information available at the time indicated that the Viet Cong used three 81mm mortars to rain a barrage of 25 to 30 shells on the airfield and the neighboring complex housing Americans based at Bien Hoa.

Of the 27 aircraft hit by the enemy mortars, 26 were USAF B-57 bombers. Five of the 10th engine bombers were destroyed, eight received major damage and the remainder sustained damage of a minor nature, the spokesman said.

In addition to the B-57's, four U.S. helicopters suffered damage and three A-1H Skyraiders belonging to the VNAP sustained major damage. A fourth Skyraider was reported to have crashed on take-off while acting to respond to the attack.

Most of the casualties were removed to the Navy Hospital in Saigon where four are reported as serious casualties. Two Vietnamese guards were killed and two other Vietnamese wounded in addition to the American casualties.

SP4 Roger A. Carter, a helicopter mechanic, questioned at the hospital said that the attack woke him from his sleep and as he was getting dressed a shell rained into the roof of his BHK. He said that two servicemen - friends - were killed in the explosion. "I was lucky," he said.

Gen. W.C. Westmoreland, commander of the Military Assistance Command, visited the base after earlier talking to wounded men at the hospital in Saigon.

President, State, Defense Heads Confer On Attack

New York, Nov. 1 (UPI) — President Johnson Saturday night summoned the Secretary of State and Defense to a White House meeting this afternoon to review "all aspects" of the communist guerrilla raid which resulted in destruction of five B-57 bombers and the death of four U.S. servicemen near Saigon in South Vietnam.

Press Secretary George E. Reedy said Johnson, here last night for a campaign speech, met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara about first reports of a Viet Cong attack that occurred during the night on the Bien Hoa Airfield in South Vietnam.

Reedy said Johnson expected "to receive more complete reports of the action in the evening."

"By that time full reports will be available from our representatives in Saigon," Reedy said.

Newly elected Vietnamese Chief of State Phan Khanh Son and Prime Minister-designate Tran Van Huong led the nation in a two-day celebration marking the first anniversary of the November 1st revolution yesterday morning at a three-hour ceremony and parade at Bach Dang Quay along the Saigon River.

The parade, in which Vietnam's two newly elevated leaders appeared publicly for the first time, marked the first 12 months since the successful overthrow of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem that ended his nine-year regime.

Replenished in dress uniforms, elements of the Vietnamese Armed Forces military schools and service units paraded before Chief of State Son and Prime Minister Huong and former Chief of State Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh and former Prime Minister Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Among the array of distinguished Vietnamese civilian and military officials were members of the diplomatic corps. Representing the U.S. government were Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. W.C. Westmoreland, COMUSMACV, and other U.S. civilian and military officials.

The military review was preceded by a review of the Honor Guard by the Chief of State Son who was dressed in the traditional Vietnamese costume.

LBJ Hits Back At Barry

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UPI) — President Johnson, in a stinging campaign finale, said Saturday night that Sen. Barry M. Goldwater has learned from the people that "extremism in the pursuit of the presidency is an unpardonable vice."

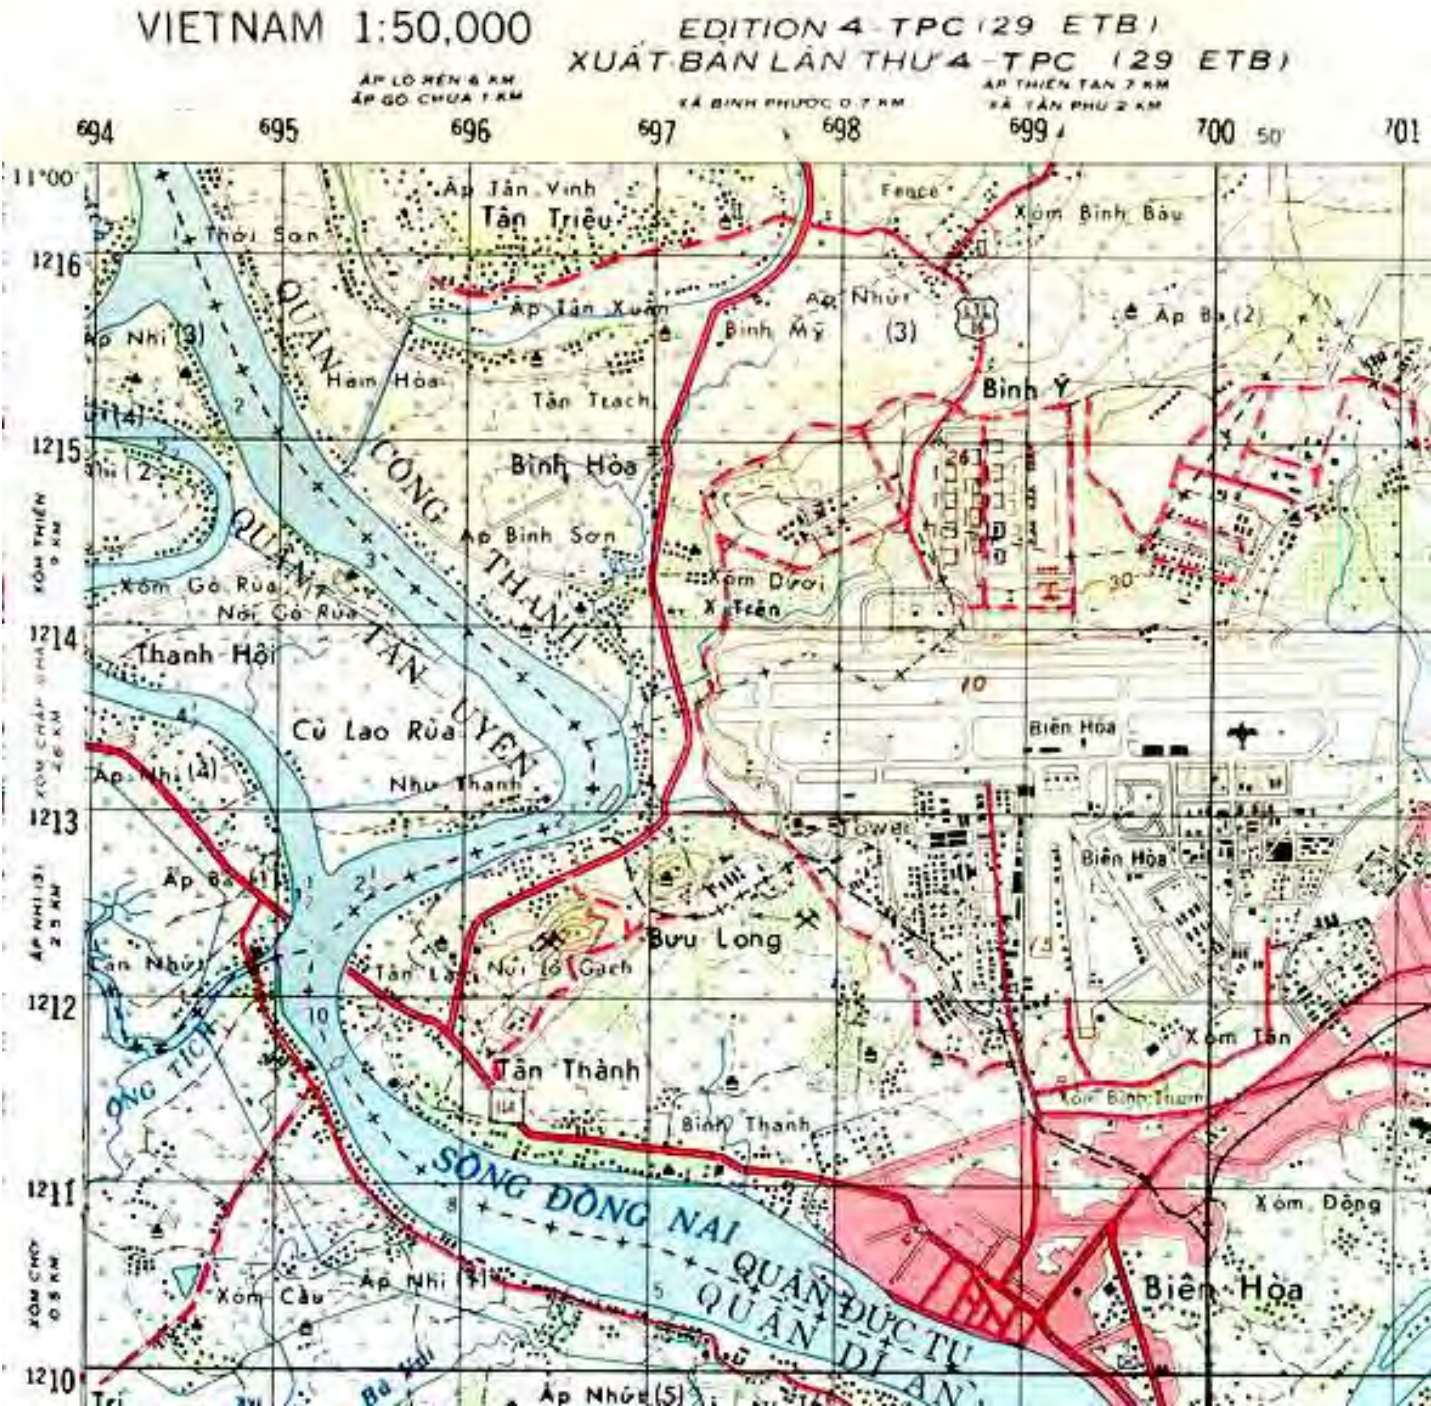

He added, in completing his parody on his opponent's July nomination acceptance speech, that "moderation in the affairs of the nation is the highest virtue."
