

Memo to Planet Earth

Soliloquy

(c) 2022, by Don Poss

The United States of America Does not want your countries and does not seek war with you. A global war upon the USA would mean you want our country and seek war against us.

First: You can't have it.

Second: You can't take it.

Third: If you try, you don't really want to live.

Force the USA to fight against you and we will lay waste to your nation(s), establish constitutional governments, set up wiser frameworks for securing freedoms within, then— go home.

Behave, and we may continue bailing you out from your dictators' shaky economies, give relief from famine, pestilence, storms, natural disasters, and when some other nation decides to tank-tread across your country to invade your neighbor we may help save your bacon (again).

Simply put—play nice or fanaticize about some other way to commit Suicide-by-USA.
