Poem - Darkness Within
(c) 2018 by Don Poss

Into darkness I walked the walk;
Out of darkness I ran.

In dead of night I slumbered not, 'tis the sleep I dread.

Hoarding faces of those long felled, too many names at rest,
I followed the sail of my shadow, to find the why of the fright.

Angered when the festering-festered, I watched it billow away,

The backside of sunlight pushing, as frontside of darkness tugged,
I stood in dream's gauntlet between...

The answers no closer than far away...the solution somewhere in me.

Thank you,

Don Poss
