

For All Things Shall Pass!

© 2002 by Jackie R. Kays

The foreboding dark dangers of life,
prevail, persist and plague us daily,
no matter how hard we try to resist.

Run, run with happiness, and the joy of life sublime!
Don't ever stop and glance back, for in hot pursuit
will be the evils that haunt all mankind.
Dance, sing, love and live today!
For tomorrow is promised to no one.

Life is but a nanosecond, in the eons of time.
So live life to the utmost and try to make it rhyme.
Worry not of today, for after a thousand tomorrows
it will not matter what happen yesterday.

For all things shall pass!