

Tribute to the Sky Cops

© 2006 by Howard Yates

There is a band of tried and true
With members far and wide
They come from every walk of life
But share a common pride

They chose to heed their country's call
And sacrifices make
They traveled to a foreign land
Whose freedom was at stake.

Some spent their nights in solitude
And listened with intent
While others braved the noon time sun
Whose heat would not relent.

Though many times the enemy
Would hope to find them weak
Those modern day centurions
Were always at their peak.

While some may question what they did
The history books will teach
When sky cops took the watch in Nam
Their walls were hard to breach.

From those of us who made it home
To those who gave their all
In gratitude we bow our heads
Their honor to recall.
