Six of the original group perform today from time to time and several of us get together for reunions every few years. The reunions are always a great time as we reminisce about our days with the Goldiggers. I believe that our time entertaining our servicemen is probably one of the most rewarding things we did.

If you are ever interested in seeing what many of us look like today, you may want to look at the website: www.originalgoldiggers.com

Thank you for remembering us.
