

The building in the background is building 123. It is the orderly room for the 377th Air Police Squadron.

Before going on shift each evening, it was mandatory to conduct a guardmount.

During guardmount, important information was given out and then they inspect you and your uniform.

Once guardmount was over with, posting came next. Most of the time posting was done with the M-151 jeep. Some got posted on a flatbed truck or a deuce and a half truck.

These men are waiting for their ride to post them for the night. (Jan 1967)

LT Col Grove C. Johnson, Commander, 377th Air Police Squadron is on the left.

Col Grover K. Coe, Base Commander, Tan Son Nhut Air Base, is on the right.

The two were the best of friends. Both men were well liked by the air policemen.

Col Grover K. Coe, Base Commander, chats it up with the men of the 377th Security Police Squadron.

Col Grover K. Coe, Base Commander, chatting with the men of the 377th Air Police Squadron.

Col Grover K. Coe, Base Commander, chatting with the men of the 377th Air Police Squadron.